

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

library.temple.edu

Scholarly Communications Services for Faculty, Researchers, and Graduate Students

Libraries

ABOUT

Temple University Libraries' collections, resources, and services support faculty and graduate student research and scholarship. We are also committed to assisting faculty, researchers, and graduate students navigate the creation, review, dissemination, and preservation of their scholarly work.

To that end, the Libraries are available to consult on:

Copyright

Negotiating author agreements and book contracts

Using copyrighted materials in scholarship or teaching

Understanding Creative Commons licensing

Publishing

Evaluating journal quality

Finding funding for article processing charges (APCs)

Launching an Open Access (OA) journal

Locating support for digital projects

Teaching

Using Open Educational Resources (OER) in the classroom

Writing or editing an open textbook

Other

Curating a digital scholarly identity

Depositing work in a disciplinary repository

Finalizing and submitting theses and dissertations

LEARN MORE

Blog

Visit our Scholarly Communications @ Temple blog for the latest news in scholarly publishing, open access, fair use, and more.
sites.temple.edu/scholarlycommunication/

Contacts

Steven Bell, Associate University Librarian bells@temple.edu

Annie Johnson, Library Publishing and Scholarly Communications Specialist annie.johnson@temple.edu

Mary Rose Muccie, Executive Director/Scholarly Communications Officer, Temple University Press
maryrose.muccie@temple.edu

About the Libraries

Temple University Libraries serve as trusted keepers of the intellectual and cultural record—collecting, describing, providing access to, and preserving a broad universe of materials, including physical and digital collections, rare and unique books, manuscripts, archives, ephemera, and the products of scholarly enterprise at Temple. We are committed to providing research and learning services, to providing open access to our facilities and information resources, and to fostering innovation and experimentation. The Libraries serve Temple’s students, researchers, teachers and neighbors on Main, Center City and Health Sciences Center campuses in Philadelphia and on our Ambler and Harrisburg campuses.